with an abundance of natural light and views of nature. A Certified Special Education Teacher is responsible for all lesson planning, teaching and testing, as well as coordination with the client's home district. Coordination of GED testing is also available when appropriate. A Certified Teacher's Aid, along with a GLRC Counselor, assist in the classroom to allow for sufficient monitoring and individual support.

During the treatment stay, weekly school reports are provided by the Teacher to the Primary Counselors documenting classroom performance. Each client is assigned a laptop computer and headphones (when needed) at their workstation to enhance their learning experience. Computer usage is closely monitored and security blocks from inappropriate websites and social media are in place. The computers are for academic use only.

Community Service

Weekly community services learning projects are conducted on site or in the local community. These projects will allow to fulfill their court related obligations during their stay at ASC. Projects range from working with senior citizens with special needs, building community gardens, reading to children in local day care centers and more.

Recreation

LUNA

LUNA — Look. Uncover. Nurture. Act.

Great Lakes Recovery Centers and Easterseals of Michigan launched a neuro-developmental trauma assessment program for children ages 2 through 18 from throughout the Upper Peninsula.

The LUNA Model is a comprehensive multi-disciplinary team assessment used to identify the impact of trauma on a child. The day-long assessment process includes up to 21 standardized tools to assess different areas impacted by trauma including intelligence, speech and language skills, fine and gross motor skills, sensory processing, neurological processing, trauma exposure and effects, behavioral challenges and mental health. The assessments are conducted by a trans-disciplinary team of clinicians including Occupational Therapists, Speech and Language Therapists and Behavioral Health Clinicians to identify the impact of trauma on a child's emotional, psychological and developmental functioning.

Outpatient Services

The outpatient approach on recovery is less intensive than residential services, but offers a more flexible approach for those who need freedom to attend school. Clients meet for individual and/or group sessions that focus on living life in recovery. For those leaving treatment, outpatient services can provide a smooth transition from treatment to home life.
